

Assistive Technology Teams: Many Ways to Do It Well

This manual includes information gathered from 55 AT teams from across the country, their development, and their challenges. It provides specific ideas and strategies to improve the function of AT teams as well as a self assessment tool about team functioning.

AT Trainer's Handbook

The AT Trainer's Handbook is designed for all AT service providers who train others. It contains research-based information about planning, completing and evaluating training. It applies to one-on-one training as well as workshops. Critical issues about adult learners and learning style are incorporated into specific planning strategies. It also includes ideas for advertising your workshops, arranging the room, providing opportunities for reflection and follow-up. Included in the handbook are a number real life examples, specific reflection activities, and forms to use in planning and evaluating workshop training.
